Dear Ms. Robinson.*

I am emailing you today to urge the EPA to extend the Public Comment deadline on the Dewey-Burdock underground injection control permits. I request that you extend this deadline by an additional 90 days based on the fact that (according to an EPA document) Powertech was made aware of this upcoming public comment schedule well over 6 months ago, and that according to the EPA notice there is now additional items added to this public comment, which include; 1. the identification of traditional cultural properties, 2. options for approval of the aquifer exemption, and 3. a revised draft environmental justice analysis.

Since Powertech was given ample notice to review these new documents, gather information and/or lobby as they need to prepare, it's not fair that the Public is only being allowed just over one month to do the same needed tasks. This is not fair nor equal treatment when one party gets a lengthy heads-up and the other party doesn't receive the same time consideration.

I thank you in advance for your fair and equal time consideration on this request for an addition 90 days.

Sincerely,

Susan R Gordon
